

Baby Drowns In Small Puddle.

The 16-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Anderson was drowned about 11 o'clock last Saturday morning in a small puddle of water near their door. The child was missed but a minute before, having toddled into the yard when the mother went for him and found the child face down in the water.

It is supposed the baby had dropped its apple in the water and in reaching for it fell and strangled, not being able to help himself.

The funeral service was held Monday afternoon from the home of the grandmother, Mrs. Ann Dickerson. The speakers were, John H. Davis, S. L. Chipman and J. W. Walker. Music by the First ward choir and a solo by John H. Davis were rendered.

Didn't Know He Was Hurt Until Five Days After

Mr. and Mrs. John Chadwick had a lucky spill on Sunday afternoon, when they were thrown from a buggy and suffered no serious harm. Their horse became frightened and in making a quick turn both occupants were thrown out. The horse stopped after running a few blocks. Both received a severe shaking up and a number of bruises, that will remind them for several days of how close they came to being more seriously injured.

Later, Mr. Chadwick informs us that the soreness in his side is due to a number of ribs being broken and he is now supported with bandages since a recent visit to a doctor, five days after the accident.

When the land is opened it will be cut into forty-acre tracts.

While the steam threshing outfit belonging to Heber Comer was working in Cedar valley on the dry farm of Ernest Hindley, a spark from the engine set fire to the grain stack and about 200 bushels of unthreshed grain was destroyed. Some Anti-Taft Sentiment

Collier's Weekly, probably the greatest, and most fearless independent magazine in America today, hated and feared by fraud and corruption in every line, is exerting an influence in the present presidential campaign that will tend to make politics cleaner in every state in the Union.

While it is not entirely clear which of the two Roosevelt or Wilson is a choice, there is no question of their opposition to President Taft's re-election.

The following quotations are taken from its issue of Aug. 10th.

"In practically every community in the country the Third party has absorbed the rank and file of the Republican organization, and left nothing of the old party except an empty shell, manned by officeholders, the high-tariff beneficiaries, and a few others who, in one way or another, get a personal profit out of the Republican party."

"Senator Root is, of course, a tower among the standpatters. His son is a member of a New York City law firm, one member of which resigned a $7,500 Federal job to become the county chairman of the Progressive party; the third member of the firm also is a district leader in the new organization. It is rare to find men of under forty remaining with the Republican party, unless there are strong selfish reasons."

"The Payne-Aldrich Tariff became a law exactly three years ago on Monday, Aug. 5. Every day of those three years that law has been intensely disapproved by nine out of ten of the people whom it governs; not an election has taken place during those three years but the people have expressed their resentment by overwhelming rebuking the party that made the law. And yet such is the well-guarded indifference of our legislative machinery that not all this protest has availed to change a single comma of an odious law."

President Taft's appeal from the decision of the supreme court of Kansas, wherein that court had decided the people had a right to vote Progressive presidential electors on the Republican ticket, has some resemblance to the procedure followed by the national Republican committee at Chicago. In Taft's appeal from the decision of the supreme court to Federal judge Pitney, a man who was appointed by himself, the Appeal to Reason will be heartily endorsed who in it says:

It is as though a man was to appeal from the people to himself to decide a question in which he was interested; Pitney, of course, cannot give the final decision, but he can throw it to the supreme court of the United States, and five out of these nine supreme judges have been appointed by Taft! What a farce a decision under such conditions would be! The whole court idea is a rotten thing, and Taft has done a service to the country in calling attention to it in this remarkable manner.

Quoting a prominent man of Wisconsin, Collier's Weekly says: "Surely it is less dangerous to give a third term to one whom the people wish than to force a second term for one whom the people do not wish. It is a question of morals."

Utah Wheat Wins.

The better wheat crusade begun by the Agricultural College many years ago has been successful. As a result of investigations extending through a series of years, the College discovered that Turkey Red wheat was the variety best adapted to Utah dry farms. It is known that the millers of Utah prefer this variety because of its superior bread making qualities. The College began a vigorous campaign to standardize Utah wheats advising the farmers to specialize upon this variety. Only last month the Hotel Utah served bread made from Utah wheat, the first time in the State that any hotel has ever served bread made from Utah grown wheat. As previously announced, the millers of the State have offered a ten per cent differential in favor of Turkey Red wheat. This successful fight at the College has waged for the farmers and the millers is but one step in its effort to standardize all of Utah's cereals. If the farmers are able to supply Utah with Turkey Red wheat, the State can save annually one million dollars.
